

As always, there is

NO MEETING IN JULY

However, as always, there is

SUMMER

This summer, should you find yourself gazing at the clouds, hypnotized by the colors of the sunset, spellbound by the sounds of the surf (or by the sounds of the lawn sprinkler), yet still longing for that peculiar mix of propeller-headedness and sheer cool that only Macintosh can provide, here are a few future meeting plans currently in the works:

August 3rd, 2010:

- GarageBand: Making beautiful music with the powerful software already on your Mac, by Michael Quick

September 7th, 2010:

- Skype: Calls and video conferences made cheap and easy, by Kelli Swan and Tom Davis
- Back to Mac Basics: Mousing about — The ideal mouse for your Mac, by Rob Ellis

December 7th, 2010:

- Holiday gifts customized by you: Creating personalized t-shirts, mugs, postage stamps and more with zazzle.com and cafepress.com, by Kelli Swan

All our meetings are currently scheduled for the first Tuesday of the month at First Christian Church, Canton. If there are any changes, they will be announced in these monthly meeting announcements, and on the website:

Despite our wish to not repeat ourselves, alas, occasionally we find it irresistible. Therefore, if you would like yet another summer pastime, here, once again, is the twisted little tongue tangler offered last summer. Try reciting it repeatedly and, yes, very fast:

She sells sea shells by the seashore, digitally shoots shots of said shells and surely sorts shots on her Macintosh by gosh so in September, to remember, she'll watch sea-washed sea shells she sells.

Wishing you all the pleasures of summer.
See you in August!
