This month's topic:

iOS 11

A taste of the exciting new features in the latest version of the operating system for iPhone, iPad and iPod touch to be presented by Roger Owens

If you could drink iOS 11 (we don't recommend it), it would probably taste sweet, tangy, fruity and fizzy. Many Apple gear users are aware that "new" is not always synonymous with "better", but the features in the new version of the operating system for iPhones, iPads and iPod touches are pretty wonderful, and particularly plentiful for iPad users. On Tuesday, Roger will talk about many of the new functions in iOS 11 that will make your iDevice faster and smarter, such as drag and drop, a new Mac-like Dock, a new Control Center, a new Files app, a revised App Store, an improved Notes app with tables, a more intelligent Siri, built-in screen recording, improvements to Maps, Camera and Photos, SOS Calling, inline text pictures and hand drawing, and much more. The bottom line: with zero calories and 100% energy, your iOS device will feel invigorated, and so will you. If you have been hoping for a sweet update to your iOS device, please join us on Tuesday to learn all about it, because iOS 11 looks to be a winner.

Also,

BACK TO MAC BASICS

In this segment, we focus on more fundamental skills, to make life a little easier for those who are trying to learn how to use their Macs. This month:

ERGONOMICS:
How to use your Mac without hurting yourself to be presented by Rob Ellis

While using your Mac is not on the same level of danger as climbing mountains, skydiving or running atop moving trains, over time, computer use can result in aches, pains, strains and repetitive motion injuries. On Tuesday, Rob will show how to avoid avoid such problems via better computing habits, proper positioning, keyboard angle, changing which muscle groups you use, and more.
