This month's topic:

HOW TO FIND STUFF

Wonderful search techniques for finding what you seek, on your Mac and on the Web

to be presented by Roger Owens

Never mind where you left your keys; where oh where on your Mac did you put that folder of Tahiti vacation plans? And where in the world is Tahiti exactly? And what time is it right now in Sonoma? And how should you clean the strawberry milkshake you spilled on your keyboard? And who in blazes was Mary Pickford? If you can find those car keys and find your way to our Tuesday meeting, Roger will show how to search for virtually anything, all by utilizing your Mac, (and if we have time, iPhone and iPad too). Well, nearly anything. Regrettably, there is still no "Where did I hide my passport from myself?" search available on the Mac (perhaps in the next system update), but after learning some power-search techniques, your Mac may truly become the Apple of your eye.

Also,

BACK TO MAC BASICS

In this segment, we focus on more fundamental skills, to make life a little easier for those who are trying to learn how to use their Macs. This month:

SMARTER IMAGE SEARCHES

to be presented by Rob Ellis

Searching the internet for photos, graphics, drawings, clipart, or any other type of image, is not rocket science, yet there are much smarter ways to tackle the task that are not commonly known. On Tuesday, Rob will show where to go to search for images, how to narrow your searches by specifying color, size, kind, and other criteria, and how to do reverse-image searches, i.e., how to use an image to find better or similar copies of it. Image searches can be powerful, yet simple, once you know how.

For the past 20 years or so, it has been frequently said that you can find anything on the internet. That is most assuredly not true, but the number of things you can find vastly outnumbers the number of things you cannot. And admittedly, you may not find your recently-lost Scottish terrier named "Flouncy" on your Mac itself, unless he is sitting on it, but you can at least find your photos of Flouncy, and so much more. Please join us on Tuesday to learn the best ways to find what you seek. And please feel free to bring a friend. See you there!
